

Call for Papers for the Special Issue of the Journal of Risk Research on Systemic Risks - From Natural Hazards to Cyber Risks.

Special Issue dedicated to the 28th Annual Conference of the Society for Risk Analysis – Europe \(SRA-E 2019\).

Guest Editors:

Dr. Nicola Paltrinieri, Associate Professor, Norwegian University of Science and Technology – NTNU

Dr. Jamie Wardman, Assistant Professor, Nottingham University Business School

Background

The special issue theme, “Systemic Risks: From Natural Hazards to Cyber Risks”, is intended to showcase the wide variety of risk issues that threaten society today. These risk issues can only be addressed by the diversity of experience SRA-E members represent in terms of their professions, disciplines, methodologies, and nationalities.

We welcome contributions on topics related to:

- risk assessment,
- risk characterization,
- risk perception,
- risk communication,
- risk management,
- risk governance, and
- policy relating to risk,

in the context of risks of concern to individuals, to public and private sector organizations, and to society at a local, regional, national, or global.

Submission Method:

Submitted articles should not be published or under review elsewhere. All papers should be submitted via the Journal of Risk Research submission system:

<https://mc.manuscriptcentral.com/rjrr>

All submissions will be subject to the journal’s standard peer review process. Criteria for acceptance include originality, contribution, scientific merit and relevance to the field of interest of the Special Issue. Authors should indicate that the paper is being submitted for consideration for publication in this special issue, otherwise the submission will be handled as a regular manuscript.
